We know that having a big board or a group of private investors would make it difficult for us to stay flexible or cater to our clients' specific needs. That's why Renewable Concepts has remained small at heart, even as we've grown, evolving from a family-owned business into a national leader in wind energy generation and service. The way we see it, reputation is paramount to everything. Our biggest goal is simple and straightforward: to exceed the performance of our competitors, as well as our clients' expectations.
